Any effort to convert this great public in-terest into a machine for political propa-gandism deserves prompt rebuke, for nothing could be more fatal to its useful-ness. The administrators of the great Peabody benefaction were and are fully impressed with this view, as is evidenced by their avowed purpose to contribute no pecuniary aid in any case where political or sectarian ends were sought to be pro-moted.

Manison Counthouse, July 24, 1884.

One of the first Cleveland and Hendricks ratification meetings in the State was held here to-day. It was strictly a county Democratic meeting. No running of trains, &c., from one end of the State to the other to collect a crowd, as we saw at Harrtsonburg a few days since. There was a large gathering of the Democracy of Madison county to hear the issues of the present canvass discussed.

Major Holmes Courad, of Winehester.
made one of the best speeches we ever heard. He spoke on the level of a statesheard. He spoke on the level of a statesman and a gentlemar. For one hour and a half he held his audience by the spell of his oratory and his masterly argument.
He began at the beginning, and showed how the so-called Republican party had "stolen the livery of heaven to serve the devil"—how the Republican party had arrocated to itself all the virtue and hanor of doing what in fact had been done by the Democratic party. He also showed what the Republican party had not done to redeem its pledges. He showed up the Sunday-School Matters-Some of the Parms on Dan River-Mr. Wilkins Bruce-Items. [Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.]

JULY 26, 1884. The Sunday-School Association, which The Sunday-School Association, which meets annually in July in this county or Pittsylvania, assembled at Whitlock on the 23d, and was composed of representatives from twenty-five schools. There was present, also, a concourse of people that would have filled three of the largest churches in the county. There had been an enrolment during the year of 1,799 scholars, with an average attendance of 1,220; S1 conversions; $524 collected; 3,002 volumes in the libraries.

During the two days' session an eloquent sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. A. B. Brown; addresses made by President C. T. Sutherlin, Mr. Thomas E. Barksdale, Rev. P. H. Foutsine, Captain P. C. Kesse, Mr. B. P. Franklin, Rev. H. W. Battle (of Wadesborough, N. C.), Rev. Dr. Chaplin, Rev. Mr. Wilson (pastor of the church), and a lesson given on 13th chapter, First Corinthians, by Professor S. W. Averett, the Association being the class. There was considerable discussion of an interesting onsiderable discussion of an interesting considerable discussion of an interesting character during the progress of the lesson, and the Greek scholars sometimes took the floor. The singing, led by Captain Williams, during the two days, was excelent. Rev. Dr. A. E. Dickinson was present, but would not speak to the people.

As there are but few fences in Halifax, and can be but few on the river, he has his cattle and hogs herded, and the hogs, he says, are as man-ageable in a herd as any of the cattle if you agesbie in a herd as any of the eather if you will allow them at times to wallow in the water. The fences are made of plank or galvanized wire. A few days ago a wild horse ran against the wure fence and was thrown back and tumbled over. Mr. Cobbs makes his own fertilizers, buying most of the ingredients and using his own recipe. He is both geologist and chemist, and has

He is both geologist and chemist, and has been an observant travellar.

Major Sutherlin has 1,300 acres on his Cloverdale farm. His corn-field of two hundred and fifty acres looks like a forest; his stack of wheat-straw like a moderate-sized hillock. On a part of his corn he put four hundred pounds of home-made guano to the acre, dropping it into the hill. This corn year, tall, and next of the stalks have two the acre, dropping it into the fall. This corn is very tall, and most of the stalks have two shoots each. On his wheat-lands he put about sixty tons of the home-prepared guano. The yield I could not learn, but it has already been sent to market. The to-bacco-lands were beyond the river, and I could not visit them. His machine-shop, with its variety of labor-saving machines, was an object of interest to a farmer, the son of a farmer, after the old style. "And does Mator Sutherlie personally direct the son of a farmer, after the old style. "And does Major Sutherlin personally direct the movements on the Cloverdale and Sunnymovements on the cloverdate and samay-side farms, while he is at the same time managing and extending the New-River railroad?" said I. "He has men who do his bidding," said my companion, "and through them he directs in detail all the ins budding, said in y companion, and through them he directs in detail all the movements, and makes himself recognized everywhere. Why, I believe he has a name for every field, and every barn, and every gate, and knows every hand by name."

Mr. Wilkins Bruce, whose farm of 1,400 acres is just beyond the river, is said to derive from his farm $4,000 per year, and is now worth about half a million. He spends part of his time in Europe every summer, and is now there, and some say that he makes those trips pay him in dollars as well as in pleasure.

The Halifax people do not think of closing their doors at night, except those near the villages. The thought of theft or of personal injury does not seem to have occurred to them.

"When the bee sucks clover the world will come to an end" is an old saying.

"When the bec sucks clover the world will come to an end" is an old saying. The truth is the proboscis of the common bee is not long enough to reach to the honey in the bloom of the clover, and many of those who have bought the Italian bee "because it was believed he could get at the honey," say that he cannot, with his longer protoscis, reach the honey of Halifax clover.

A Blaze-Bulldings Going Down and Buildings Going Up-Killed with a Ten-Pin Ball. Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch. J JULY 26, 1884. A considerable fire occurred here yester

A considerable fire occurred here yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and as there was quite a high wind at the time, as soon as the flames showed themselves above the tops of the houses, and the columns of black smoke rolled over the town, a great deal of apprehension was felt, and hundred of people hurried to the scene.

The fire was caused by the burning of Benjamin T. Bagby's frame planing-shop, with nearly all of its contents, consisting of an engine, planing-machinery, and a large lot of finished work, which had just been placed in the house; also a brick tannery near by, belonging to Mrs. Mays, and a bark-house. The material was all very inflammable and made a big blaze, and if it had not commenced to rain heavily at the time the adjoining buildings would have caught, and the destruction of property would have been fearful, as a row of buildings was directly in the course of the wind. The loss of property is estimated at from $3,500 to $4,000, the insurance being $1,500 on Mr. Bagby's engine, machinery, and building, and $1,000 on lumber, which is slight. It is divided between the Liverpool, London and Globe, the London Assurance, and the Phenix—Hoge & Sublett, agents. No insurance on the tannery.

But as buildings go down others go up

A Winchester telegram of Friday says: Thomas H. Kern, hving near the White Post, Clarke county, lost one thousand bushels of wheat by fire yesterday afternoon. The fire was communicated from the engine connected with the thresher. The machine was destroyed also. Benjamin Barrett, near Cedar Grove, in this county, lost yesterday moruing from the same cause his barn, farming implements, thirteen tons of hay, and about four hundred bushels of wheat. The machine was saved. The loss is estimated at $1,000. Ne insurance in either case.

The drought was broken this afternoon. There was a heavy downpour for nearly two hours. The rain was general in this section. Sublett, agents. No insurance on the tannery.

But as buildings go down others go up here. The handsomest brick business block in Staunton is just being completed. It is of three stories, and owned conjointly by the Masons and Messrs. Gooch and Hoge, and is situated on Main street, adjoining the old Masons' building. Two other large brick buildings are also going up on Main street, and another fine one on Augusta street—all business-houses, belonging respectively to Loeb Brothers, S. T. Wilkes, and Cochran & Hogeman. Besides these,

A sad and singular fatal accident happened to a youth of seventeen years (a son of Mr. Peter Sprouse) at Variety Springs day before yesterday. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the Hon, George D. Wise has shown himself an able and faithful CULPEPER, July 26, 1884.

The drought was brought to a close by a "fair shower" on Thursday evening, and yesterday evening we had a heavy fall of rain, accompanied by lightning and wind.

The hay-barn of S. S. Bradford, Esq., bit for meas our village was structured. The hay-barn of S. S. Market on his farm, near our village, was struck by lightning and entirely consumed, with contents—some fifty tons of hay; no insuhas shown himself an able and faithful representative of this district, and that we endorse his course in the last Congress as wise and patriotic, and promise him our hearty support.

We have attended as opportunity offered the various exercises of this body now in session, and observed with interest the methods pursued and principles inculcated which in the main seem well calculated to promote the great cause of public education, and to prepare teachers for the important duties devolving on them. Too much cannot be said in praise of the earnest and untiring efforts both of the teachers and learners. Our public school system is one Dr. Augustus Bodeker.

Dr. Augustus Bodeker died at his residence, in this city, yesterday morning, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. He fell a prey to consumption, from the dread effects of which he had long been a patient sufferer, and his demise was not, therefore, unlooked for. Dr. Bodeker came to this country from Hanover. Germany, in 1837, and learned the drug business with O. H. Strecker. In 1846 he commenced business for himself, which he conducted successfully, and for many years he was one of the leading druggists of this city. He associated with himself in the conduct of this business his brother, but last Jung, on account of failing health, he withdrew from the firm of Bodeker Brothers, of which he was the senior partner, and retired from active business. In 1874 he served in the Legislature of Virginia as a member of the House of Delegates, and for many years was one of the Board of Magistrates, frequently occupying the position of presiding justice. learners. Our puble school system is one in which men of all parties, sects, and creeds should feel the deepest interest, and for this very reason all who desire its success should earnestly strive to divest it of all political and sectarian influences.

Any effort to convert this creent public incupying the position of presiding justice. In all relations of life he was an honored and valuable citizen, whose usefulness in life and integrity of character commanded the respect and esteem of men wherever he moted.

We are glad to say that in the main the addresses and teachings at this Institute addresses and teachings at this institute are not fairly subject to criticism in this respect. The exception was to be found in the address of Superintendent Farr, which not only exhibited the animus of the intolerant partisan, but such a total disregard of facts as can only be accounted for on the score of gross ignorance or determined misrepresentation.

We take the liberty of calling the public attention to it, because we do not desire to see the public schools impaired in their usefulness, nor the State deprived of the benefit of all aid from the Peabody fund, which will assuredly be the result if there be any repetition of this objectionable action on the part of the Superintendent of Public Schools.

SHARP SUGAR-STEALERS.

Officer Walton Finds Sixteen Barrels of Stolen Sugar-Arrest of the Parties Im-

Some time since Officer A. T. Walton, of the Second police-station, suspected a certain party of receiving stolen sugar. His attention was called to the fact by reston of certain movements and the stencil brand "J. D. P." which appeared on some barrels. He went to see Major J. D. Patton at his store, on Cary street, and communicated his suspicions to the Major. Yesterday morning Major Patton remarked to his chief clerk, Mr. Thomas Binford, that he would be absent from the store for some time. As soon as he left Mr. Binford also remarked in the presence of the colored porter that he would be gone from the store for a short while. Major Patton went ont across the street and took a position in the second story of the store opposite his own. Mr. Binford also placed himself in a position in which he could observe everything that was done in Major Patton's store. Hardly had these arrangements been perfected before Thomas Clark, the colored porter employed in the store, and Fleming Pryor, a colored dray-driver, seized a barrel of granulated sugar and rolled it into Pryor's dray. Pryor mounted the dray and drove rapidly away, followed by Allen E. Donnan, who found it difficult to keep in sight of him.

Officer Walton was telephoned to come down to Cary street, while Mr. Donnan pursued the dray. He saw Pryor drive up to the groccity-store of Lewis Carpenter (colored), on Brook avenue, and unload his, dray. Securing the services of Officer Hannon, Mr. Donnan went into Carpenter's store and there, under the counter, found a barrel of granulated sugar, which he indentified by the stencil-brand, and a private mark also, which Major Patton had taken the precaution to put on all his barrels.

BAPTIST ASSOCIATION.

TOUCHING MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Represented.

This venerable body held its annual session with the Beulah shurch, King William county, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday last.

This Association is composed of fifty-five churches, located in Goochland, Hanover, Henrico, King William, Caroline, Charles City, Elizabeth City, James City, Louisa, New Kent, Warwick, and York counties, and reports an aggregate (white) membership of 8,397.

The letters from the churches this year indicated a good degree of prosperity. Forty-nine churches reported 568 baptisms, and a total contribution for the year of $80,731.33. They report an increase of interest in Sunday-school work and the cause of general benevolence and mission work. The Richmond churches belong to this Association, and the following summary of their statistics for the past year will be of interest:

The Association organized by the election of the following officers: Moderator, William Ellyson; Clerk, Carter Holm Jones; Treasurer, J. F. Cottrell.

The introductory sermon (an every way admirable one) was preached by Rev. Dr. John Pellard, of this city.

Sermons were also preached during the meetings by Rev. S. C. Clopton, Rev. Dr. A. B. Woodfin, Rev. J. M. Pilcher, Rev. E. C. Dargan, and Rev. Dr. C. H. Ryland.

There were reports on home missions, State missions, foreign missions, education, Sunday-school and colportage work, the state of the churches, and other matters, which elicited discussions of deep interest, and deeplie the intense heat the large congregations present seemed to enjoy greatly the meetings. But the interest culminated in the memorial services held in honor of Rev. John O. Turpin, the late pastor of Beulah. As Mr. Turpin had been for forty-three years pastor of this church and member of the Association, it was deemed appropriate to set apart an hour for paying a suitable honor to his memory.

Rev. Dr. C. H. Ryland presented an admirably-written and touchingly-appropriate paper, which he followed with some very tender remarks.

Mr. Turpin is buried, at his own request, in the church-yard under the tree where for forty three years he was accustomed to

Many recalled with tender emotion his last words at the cemennial meeting of the Dover Association last year, when he closed

his address by saying:

"Robert Ryland still lives, and long may be. From bim and Andrew Broaddus I have received more benefit in my preachling than from any other men. But very

I feel as one who treads alone some banquet half deserted. Its lights all fled, its garlands dead, and all save he departed. "And now, beloved brethren, what another century may unfold we know not. The Dover Association will in all likelihood celebrate all of her centennals with this church. The descendants of those who so kingly serve us now will administer Chris-tian hospitalities in the future returns of the centuries. The meeting of the Committee on the Improvement of James River, which was to have taken place on the Craighill Monday evening, has been postponed by Chairman Crenshaw until Tuesday evening, on account of a number of committee-meetings on Monday evening, which would probably have prevented the Improvement Committee from getting a quorum. P. Craighill. The dredge City of Richmond has just been ordered by the committee to be put in thorough condition, and the dredge Admiral Newport has just undergone thorough overhauling and repairing. An inventory of all the property in this department has been ordered to be submitted to the committee on Tuesday evening. The Government pays the expenses of the machinery while in its service. The appropriation made to the improvement by the city last year was a little over eleven thousand dollars.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock last night there was great excitement on Main street near Old Market caused by Policeman Robertsen clubbing a young man named Sweeney. Mr. Sweeney was found in a dark alley near Main street between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets drunk. Rooertson made an attempt to arrest him on Main street which teenth streets drunk. Robertson made an attempt to arrest him on Main street, which he revisted, and the officer was forced to use his club. He struck Sweeney one lick on the forehead, which inflicted a gash a half inch long. The crowd, being attracted by the noise, and seeing the blood, supposed the young man's injuries to be more serious than they really were, and about 150 persons followed Robertson up the street, with cries of "Hang him," &c. As a tribute of respect for a neighbor and friend we feel called upon to give this mements of Mr. A. Bodeker. As one who knew him well and long, we can say with unfeigned sincerity that he was truly endowed with the beautiful traits of character of citizen, neighbor, and friend; and what Scripture defines as "pure and undefiled religion" was worn by him as an unpretending chaplet despite the cares and trials that some way attach to all through life's pligrimage.

His devotion and fathfulness to his family was an ever-prominent motive of action with him. Toward his daughters, whose watchful attentions of him were a beautiful displayof fil'al affection, his tender cousidication was a charming picture to all who were intimate with the family.

In the death of Mr. Bodeker the community sustains the loss of a good citizen, and the family will have the sympathy of many with whom he so feelingly sympathized in their afflictions; and while we mourn with them, it is not without the hope of meeting again where all tears are ope of meeting again where all tears are
